ALL WHO SAW 'EM "SHELLED OUT"

Kingston Girls Appealing for Disabled Service Men Couldn't be Resisted and 600 More Have Tickets for Big Ball at Armory Friday.

Kingston was invaded Saturday night. The attack was a complete surprise, and the garrison surrendered without a struggle.

It was all in the interest of the "Sick Soldiers' Home" which is to be maintained on Albany avenue for two months this summer. Company M having donated the armory for a big ball to be given next Friday evening, and the time being so short to distribute the thousands of tickets which it is desired to sell, it was decided to start things with a rush, and the invading army was recruited from among the many pretty girls for which Kingston is famous.

Brigadier General William H. Ten Broeck was in command of the forces, with Colonel C. V. A. Decker as his chief of staff, and it was planned to make an attack on the dispersed and disorganized shopping and movie crowds which throng the streets on a Saturday night.

General Palmer Canfield, Jr., commander in chief of the whole army, sat in his tent and planned it all out on paper as those great commanders do. He sent out his great, clanging, banging fire truck to lead the attack. William C. DeWitt, chief gunner, sat on the fire truck and "hollered" through a big megaphone and told the crowd what was coming to them if they didn't surrender. And then all those good-looking girls jumped out of the six or seven automobiles flying the Stars and Stripes and turned the machine guns of their eyes and smiles on the defenseless hosts.

They were armed with tickets—armed to the teeth, and they sold them right and left, scattering them like shrapnel through the crowds.

Rondout, the Strand and lower Broadway were invaded first and conquered. Then the central and West Shore section surrendered about 8 o'clock without bloodshed.

Wall street fell about 8:45, just as Keeney's was disgorging its first audience, and the uptown shops were crowded with patrons. Women and children were spared but not a man escaped.

It was a short struggle, no resistance, everybody surrendered. Over six hundred tickets were sold in two hours.

The campaign for this fund has now opened. It is not merely a campaign to sell tickets for the ball at the armory. Money enough must be raised to maintain this "Sick Soldiers' Home" for July and August. The house has been donated. Kingston people will give the money to run it.

If you want to go to the ball, you many buy tickets at Burgevin's, McBride's two stores, E. Winter's Sons, Maben & Walker's, W. H. Ten Broeck's, Taxi Garage, Connelly Drug Company, Ben Johnston's, Ginzberg's and Weber's drug stores. You may buy as few or as many as you like.

If you do not care to attend the ball you surely want to help in supporting this home where convalescent soldiers may spend a few happy weeks after leaving the military hospitals from which they have just been discharged.

Write your check and send it to Frank Coykendall, treasurer, and let's raise the needed amount without any delay.

The method by which the home is to be run and the names of those who will conduct it will be made public as soon as the plans are completed. Carl Preston of the Huntington has consented to take charge of the commissary department.

About twenty soldiers can be accommodated. What will you give to make these boys happy? Do it now.

LEGION APPROVES SLACKER LISTS

Veterans' Organization Feels That Even If Some Of Its Own Members Are Temporarily Branded Real Shirkers Must Be Exposed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—Assurances are coming into national headquarters of the American Legion from members in all parts of the country that even though their names have been erroneously included on lists of draft deserters they are willing to endure this temporary embarrassment in order that the real slackers may be held up to permanent shame.

In some localities, legion posts are checking the lists before publication. Relative to errors that have crept into the slacker lists, National Commander F. W. Galbraith, Jr., said:

"The American Legion sees no reason to regret the issuance and publication of the draft deserter lists. That publication has shown there are so many errors in these lists is of course to be regretted, but errors are inevitable in the handling of one hundred and sixty thousand names.

"Many of the men embarrased by the erroneous inclusion of their names are ex-service men and legion members with honorable records. Their embarrassment has been but temporary, however, as the errors have been quickly righted.

"Friends, relatives and neighbors know who served and who did not serve their country and newspapers have quickly made amends for unintentional injury at the hands of the government.

"I believe that nine out of ten ex-service men are willing to be slightly and temporarily embarrassed if they feel that the slackers of the country are, at the same time, being rightfully and permanently embarrassed.

"As a matter of fact, publication of these lists gives the opportunity of forever clearing the names of the men who served which otherwise might through error be stained.

OVERLANDS, DORTS AND TIRES DOWN

Reduced prices for Overland and Willys Knight automobiles will go into effect on June 1. Last September the price of the Overland was smashed from $1,035 to $895. June 1 the price is again cut, this time from $895 to $695, a sweeping reduction of $200 more. The new price is $150 less than the lowest price for which this car was ever sold and is made possible, according to John N. Willys, by the quantity sale, which already has passed the 140,000 mark, and by the anticipation of great savings in manufacturing through increased volume and increased factory efficiency.

The new Overland prices compared with the old are as follows: Touring, $695, formerly $895; roadster, $695, formerly $895; coupe, $1,000, formerly $1,425; sedan, $1,275, formerly $1,475. The new price on the Willys-Knight will be $1,895, or a cut of $300.

Effective at once the Dort Motor Car Company of Flint, Michigan, announces price reduction on Dort cars as follows: Touring car and roadster from $1,215 to $1,115, coupe $1,865 to $1,685, sedan $1,995 to $1,835.

As readers of The Freeman's advertising columns know there has been a 20 per cent reduction in the price of tires, cord and fabric, as well as tubes, affecting nearly all makes.

PRESIDENT PAYS TRIBUTE TO 5,000 SOLDIER DEAD AT HOBOKEN; NEW YORK SPEECH PLEDGES GOVERNMENT EFFICIENCY, COST WHAT IT MAY

Chokes With Emotion As He Stands Among Coffins and Says "We Shall Not Forget"—Doesn't Want Americans Unwilling to Fight for Their Country But "It Must Not Be Again" Rings In His Ears.

New York, May 23.—America's grief and America's pride for her warrior dead who fell on the battlefields of Europe were uttered today through the lips of President Harding when he delivered a devotional address in Hoboken at memorial services for the Americans who died in action abroad.

Standing amidst 5,212 plain, white pine coffins, each draped with the Stars and Stripes, President Harding spoke, and with a voice choked with emotion, while tears welled up in his eyes, expressed the heartfelt wish that the manhood of the United States may never be called upon again to go to war.

"I would not wish a nation for which men are not willing to fight and if need be to die, but I do wish for a nation where it is not necessary to ask for that sacrifice," said President Harding. "I do not pretend that the millenial day has come, but I can believe in the possibility of a nation being so righteous as never to make a war of conquest and a nation so powerful in righteousness that no one will dare invoke her wrath. I wish for such an America."

The president said: "I have come here today thinking that perhaps I can give some expression of that counterpart in the hearts of the republic to the thing that is felt in the hearts of friends in this extraordinary event.

"There grows on me the realization of the usual character of this occasion. Our republic has been at war before. It has asked and received the supreme sacrifices of its sons and its daughters and faith in America has been justified. Many sons and daughters made the sublime offering and went to hallowed graves as the nation's defenders. But we never before sent so many to battle under the flag in foreign lands, never before was there the impressive spectacle of thousands of dead returned to find eternal resting place in the beloved home land. The incident is without parallel in history that I know.

"These dead know nothing of our ceremony today. They sensed nothing of the sentiment nor the tenderness which brings their wasted bodies to the home land for burial, close to kin and friend and cherished associations. These poor bodies are but the clay tenements once possessed of souls which flamed in patriotic devotion, brightened new hopes in the battle grounds of civilization and in their sacrifices sped on to accuse autocracy before the court of eternal justice.

"We are not met for them, though we love and honor and speak a grateful tribute. It would be futile to speak to those who do not hear, or to sorrow for those who cannot sense it, or to exalt those who cannot know. But we can speak for country, we can reach those who sorrow and sacrificed through their services, who suffered through their giving, who glory with the republic to their heroic achievement, who rejoice in the civilization their heroism preserved. Every funeral, every memorial, every tribute is for the living—an offering in compensation of sorrow. When the light of life goes out there is a new radiance in eternity and somehow the glow of it relieves the darkness which is left behind.

"These heroes have made the supreme sacrifice. They saw democracy endangered and they defended it. They saw humanity imperilled and they rescued it. We shall not forget, no matter whether they lie in the sweetness or bloom of the home land or sleep in the soil of the crimsoned. Our mindfulness, our gratitude, our reverences shall be expressed in the preserved republic, the maintained liberties and the supreme justice for which they died.

"Never a death but somewhere a new life; never a sacrifice but somewhere an atonement; never a service but somewhere an achievement.

"These had served, which is the supreme inspiration of dying. They have earned our everlasting gratitude which is the solace in dying.

"I find a hundred thousand sorrows touching my heart, and there is ringing in my ears like an admonition eternal an insistent call 'It must not be again; it must not be again.'

"God grant that it will not be and let a practical people join in cooperation with God in the end that it shall not be."

It was at this point that President Harding expressed the wish that America might become so powerful in her righteousness that she would never be called upon again to go to war.

Pulled out from the rest of the coffins was one containing the remains of Joseph Guyton, the first American to meet death under the Stars and Stripes on enemy soil. As he spoke the president leaned over and placed an enormous wreath upon the top of the flag-draped coffin. As he did so he said:

"In the name of the republic I bestow this tribute upon the casket containing the remains of the first American soldier who perished on the soil of the enemy. This opportunity was not chosen as a suggestion of hatred in the American heart for there is no hatred in the American heart. It is offered as a tribute to one who died on German soil, as one who went forward in the cause of humanity."

The president said it was interesting to note that the American soldier died three years ago almost to a day. Guyton was described as "a resident and patriot of Michigan." His home was at Evart, Mich.

The memorial was one of the most impressing services of its kind ever held in America. A soft, gray light filtered down through the skylights of the vast pier shed, adding a subdued touch to the general solemnity. There were not many dry eyes in the throng as the president delivered his moving tribute. Mrs. Harding and other women who were present wept with no attempt at restraint.

The funeral march was played as the ceremonies began and during the religious service a regimental band played "Nearer My God to Thee."

There were eleven dead nurses among the dead, but no special mention was made of them. Nor was there any special mention of the fact that three of the dead soldiers were from Marion, Ohio, the president's home city. It was the design of the president and the American Legion that the tribute today should not be directed toward any special section but should embrace all Americans who made the supreme sacrifice.

CHANDLER TESTS FOR STATE COPS

Major Chandler Believes in Efficiency of the "Nut" Test for Quick Decision—Mrs. Chandler Has Job of Framing "Exams."

The Albany Knickerbocker Press in noting that Edison has focused attention on tests, says Major George Chandler, head of the state police organization, has been using tests ever since the establishment of the force four years ago to select his troopers. Out of 1,700 applicants in a recent examination only eighty came up to the standards.

Physical, mental, moral and memory examinations have their important place in revealing the character of the prospective trooper, but Major Chandler places everlasting and unlimited faith in the so-called psychological or "nut" test. Quick decision is the master key to many a situation the state trooper must face. So in two minutes, the applicant must complete the "nut" test. Although at a glance not difficult it has proved to be much of a "Waterloo" for many an applicant.

To Mrs. Chandler, who has always been actively interested in Major Chandler's police force, goes the task of framing every "nut" test. Every new examination to fill up the ranks of the state police brings forth another "sticker" for the aspiring trooper. Here is a simple "nut" test:

With your pencil make a dot over any one of these letters F G H and a comma after the longest of these words: boy, mother girl. Then if Christmas comes in March make a cross right here but if not pass along to the next question and tell where the sun rises ——— If you believe that Edison discovered America cross out what you just wrote, but if it was some one else, put in a number to complete this sentence: "A horse has ——— feet."

Write "Yes" no matter whether China is in Africa or not ——— and then give the wrong answer to this question: "How many days are there in the week" ——— ———. Write any letter except "g" just after this comma, ——— and then write "No" if 2 times 5 are 10 ———. Now if Tuesday comes after Monday, make two crosses here ———, but if not, make a circle here ———, or else a square here ——— Be sure to make three crosses between these two names of boys, George ——— Henry.

Notice these two numbers, 2, 5. If iron is heavier than water, write the large number here ——— but if iron is lighter write the smaller number here ——— Show by a cross when the nights are longer: summer ——— or winter ———. Give the correct answer to this question: "Does water run uphill?" ——— and repeat your answer here ——— Do nothing here if 5x7 is ——— unless you skipped the preceding question but write the first letter of your name and the last letter of your last name at the end of this line ———.

In addition to the "nut" test the would-be trooper must undergo the memory or observation test. He is give two or three minutes to glance at a table covered with thirty or more objects. He is asked to name every article he saw. Fifteen must be listed in order to obtain a "passing mark." Many of the candidates have remembered as many as twenty-eight and Major Chandler said there were few who had recalled every article.

But before the aspiring trooper has reached the above two tests he must first pass the physical examination, and only those physically fit are permitted to pass on to the mental, memory and "nut" tests.

Harding Bespeaks Support of Public In Combatting Disloyal Politicians and Force of Inertia—Would Modernize Departments Which Have Existed Long Time and Have Not Changed Methods.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 23.—Speaking today before a distinguished gathering of political economists, educators and students of government, President Harding declared that one of the most difficult problems he is facing is the task of "bringing economy and efficiency into the government."

Inertia and indifference, he said, must be combated at ever point, "the loyalty of a certain class of politicians" is not in the undertaking, and the task is "thankless and ungracious," but he pledged his administration anew to its successful accomplishment. No business, no household, he declared, could continue to spend money as indiscriminately and loosely as the government has spent it "without leading to disaster."

President Harding spoke at a luncheon of the Academy of Political Science at the Hotel Astor. It was the first speech of a busy day for the chief executive. Tonight he will be the guest of honor at the celebration of the 125th anniversary of the founding of the New York Commercial, and will speak again on the subject of governmental and business reorganization.

"Nothing is easier in a government establishment" the president said, "than to continue in existence offices, positions and employment, once they are created. It requires no persistent, determined, stony-hearted devotion to public interest. There must be utter sacrifice of all sympathy for the place-holder whose real reason for keeping his position is that he wants the salary. Inertia, which is easily the greatest force in governmental organization, must be combatted at every point.

"The administration which devotes itself relentlessly to such work must understand that it will lose a great deal of immediate loyalty on the part of a certain class of politicians, which will not be compensated to it at once in the appreciation of the public.

"Nevertheless, thankless and ungracious as the task will be for most of those who devote their efforts to it, it must and will be attacked, it is being attacked, with all determination. In all departments this sort of work already is progressing under executive orders within the power of the executive. We shall need full support of enlightened public opinion."

WHY SOCIALIST WHITE BEAT WIFE

She Was His French Bride of But Short Time, and Not Understanding English Well She Threw Egg Shells in Fire He Wanted For Chickens.

The Marlborough Record states that J. Bouck White, well known Socialist writer, whose marriage to a French girl was recently announced drove his wife from their mountain home near Marlborough after administering a beating. The cause of the beating was the wife throwing a few egg shells in the fire when J. Bouck told her in English which she did not readily understand, that he wanted the shells for his chickens.

According to the neighbors White after driving his wife from the house visited their homes and told them not to shelter the unfortunate girl. Mrs. William McElrath, however, received and protected her. The girl is now suing for a divorce.

Justice of Peace Hutchins issued a warrant for White's arrest, and it was necesary to send a deputy sheriff to get the wife's clothes. White even took the diamond he had given her, and left her without funds. She has applied to the French counsul in New York to get funds from her father, a chemist in Paris.

LEWIS ASSAULT STILL MYSTERY

Night Watchman at R-G-R. Store Recovers Sufficiently From Brutal Attack To Be Removed to His Home Saturday.

Albert W. Lewis, night watchman at the R-G-R. store on North Front street, was removed from the Kingston City Hospital Saturday to his home, No. 226 Wall street, in the ambulance. He is still very weak from the wounds received when he was brutally attacked in the basement of the store several weeks ago.

It will be remembered by Freeman readers that Mr. Lewis was found unconscious on the floor of the basement after employes of the store found him missing and made an investigation. He was found near the furnace and had evidently been attacked from behind. The weapon used appeared to have been the heavy iron furnace shaker as there was blood on it. The police made a thorough investigation, but up to date the affair is still a mystery. Mr. Lewis has no recollection as to who assaulted him.

MOUNTAIN TOWN HAS BIG SCALE

Tannersville Coal Company Has Installed One With 15-Ton Capacity—Increasing Use of Motor Trucks in Mountain Region.

The biggest platform scale in the Catskill Mountain region has been installed by the Tannersville Coal Company, whose large plant is located opposite the Ulster & Delaware railroad station at that place.

The big scale was made by the Fairbanks Scale Company and has a capacity of fifteen tons. Situated atop the Catskills, the big scale not only is in constant use by the coal company but will prove a great accommodation to farmers and everyone else who have large loads to be weighed.

Development of the motor truck necessitated bigger and stronger scales for commercial use, and the Fairbanks Company some time ago began the construction of a scale of massive construction that would stand up continuously under the steady pound of big auto trucks and wagons. In order to insure permanent accuracy and long life, the suspended platform feature was introduced and has proved in every way successful. The platform instead of resting on the knife edges is suspended from them, insuring continuous contact between the knife-edges and bearings, regardless of platform movement, preventing scraping and decreasing wear. The new type is extremely sensitive and gives quick beam action.

The foundation of the scale is of simple construction, without pockets, and the heavy steel girders on which the platform rests are reinforced by a series of cross channels, forming a strong and rigid platform. All parts of the scale are readily accessible.

Another feature of the new scale is the type-registering beam, which prints the correct weight on a ticket and is a protection against errors in reading and copying figures.

On account of the grades and long hauls necessary in delivering coal, the Tannersville Coal Company uses heavy motor trucks in making many of its deliveries, particularly to distant points like Windham and Hensonville which are inaccessible to the railroad. With the new scale, a seven and a half ton truck can pull up to the coal pockets, put on a load of equal weight, be weighed and start on its delivery within twenty minutes.

The increasing use of motor trucks in all kinds of business is just as great in rural sections as it is in cities and in many sections of the Catskills and the Shawangunk mountains delivery of all produce by team and wagon is of rare occurrence. Farmers and merchants alike find the motor truck of increasing advantage, particularly with the development of the highway system of the state, the various counties and the towns. For big loads, the new scale of the Tannersville Coal Company will prove of great convenience to a large region.

JAP AND YANK SAILORS CLASH

Casualties As Result Of Battle In Shanghai Sunday—Investigation Not Yet Finished And Details Are Lacking.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tokio, May 23.—A report from Shanghai, lacking in details, today indicated that there had been some casualties as a result of a fight yesterday in Shanghai between Japanese and American sailors.

The first report received here stated the battle occurred on Woo Song street in front of a movie house. The cause of the clash was not stated but it is reported the sailors involved were from the Japanese warship Nakish and from an unnamed American ship, both having been anchored in the harbor of Shanghai.

The navy department was credited with the following statement regarding the report.

"The delay in receiving an official report on the incident is doubtless due to the fact that the investigation and negotiations for a settlement following the affair are unfinished."

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral services for the late James Yosco of Milton were held Wednesday morning from St. James's Church there. The interment took place in the Lattingtown Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. William W. Sparling, who died suddenly at her home in Binnewater on Saturday will be held from the family residence on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. Interment at Woodstock.

George F. Bilyou, the well known harnessmaker at No. 19 Hasbrouck avenue, died on Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frederick Prull, in Newburgh, from the effects of a stroke sustained on Saturday. Mr. Bilyou's wife became ill several days ago while visiting their daughter in Newburgh and Mr. Bilyou had gone to Newburgh to see her. He was taken ill there and on Saturday sustained a stroke which resulted in his death the following day. Mr. Bilyou was engaged in the harnessmaking business in Kingston for a number of years and was widely and favorably known. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of his son, William Bilyou, No. 81 Tubby street, this city. Interment in Montrepose Cemetery. Besides his wife, Mr. Bilyou is survived by his son, William, and two daughters, Mrs. Prull and Mrs. George Ward, both of Newburgh.

Elizabeth Grube, wife of Augustus Yost, died Saturday at her home, No. 104 Spring street. She was an active member of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church and of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. Mrs. Yost had been a resident of Spring street for many years and was held in high esteem by all who knew her. Besides her husband she is survived by four daughters, Amelia, Alvina and Nettie and Mrs. Jacob Schwab all of this city and three sons, Augustus, Jr., Bridgeport, Conn., Edward and Frederick Yost of this city. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Archie MacFarland of New York, two step-brothers, Augustus and William Grube of Union Hill, N. J., and one step-sister, Mrs. William Ward of Brooklyn. The funeral will be held from the late residence Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and at the Spring Street German Lutheran Church at 3 o'clock. Interment in Montrepose cemetery.

Esopus, May 23.—On Saturday, May 21, at 5:15 o'clock, Mrs. Caroline Horton Ashton died after being stricken suddenly at 1:30 in the afternoon with heart difficulty. Dr. Decker was summoned and arrived in a short time but all efforts to save the patient was unavailing. Mrs. Ashton was the widow of the Rev. Edward Ashton and the daughter of David and Deborah Horton, members of the society called Quakers. After her marriage Mrs. Ashton joined the Methodist Church and for forty years proved herself a consistent Christian and efficient helper to her husband in his ministerial labors. In 1898 Mr. Ashton retired from the active ministry and purchased a home in Esopus, this being his first appointment after joining the New York conference and the fact that Mrs. Ashton's girlhood days were spent on the homestead farm at West Esopus made this village an attractive spot to both Mr. and Mrs. Ashton. Two sons, Frederick W. and Herbert C., of Brooklyn, survive. Two children died in infancy, also a beloved daughter, Louise C., at the age of 26, whose loss the parents never ceased to mourn. Mrs. Ashton had endeared herself to young and old alike in this vicinity and elsewhere and her loss will be deeply felt in the community and church. She was a loyal member of the Ladies' Aid Society for many years and her advice was frequently sought by those less experienced in church work. She possessed a wonderful memory, was a great reader and up to the day of her death kept well informed upon all topics of the times. Deepest sympathy is extended to the sorrowing members of her family. The funeral will be held in the Methodist Church on Tuesday at 2 o'clock, new time. Interment in Ascension Cemetery, where rest the remains of her husband and daughter.

Lilac Should Be Everywhere.

No country lane or road today is complete in the northern states unless it shows touches of lilac. A few hedges occur here and there, but while otherwise adaptable, the lilac does not admit easily of such training. Longfellow's "Craigie House" is still surrounded by lilacs planted years ago, and the purple bloom makes it a rare retreat.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 23.—The stock market was irregular in the early trading today and business was not extensive. Mexican Petroleum was a strong feature, moving up 1⅛ to 147. Central Leather declined ¼ to 38⅝. Baldwin Locomotive lost ¼ to 84. General Asphalt rose ⅛ to 65⅝ and Anaconda gained ⅛ to 41⅝. Price movements in the market in the early trading were without significance, some issues being under moderate pressure, dropping lightly, while others reflected inside support and were established at a higher level. Chesapeake and Ohio opened down ⅝ to 56⅝ from which it rallied to 56⅞. Studebaker opened down ½ to 76½ and then rose to 77¾. United States Steel yielded ¼ to 82½.

The motor stocks as a group played a special part, in the trading on the stock exchange during the afternoon. Several ten thousand share selling orders appeared at the same time in General Motors which dropped to 11½, a new low record at a loss of 1⅛ from the opening price. This heavy selling was followed by pressure against Studebacker, that stock ranging from 77¾ to 72⅞ and Pierce-Arrow was down 3 points to 25⅜. Chandler dropped about 2 points to 63½.

The market closed irregular. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

General Korfanty

Herewith is one of the first photographs to reach this country of General Korfanty, leader of the Polish insurgents in Upper Silesia. Korfanty was Polish Plebiscite Commissioner when the recent vote was taken. He is said to have the support of the French in his attempts to retain Silesia for Poland.

Coat and Dignity Both Go.

The diners at the correctly formal restaurant were surprised to see the dignified man, who might have been a Supreme court judge, hurry over to his table without a dinner coat to cover his dress shirt and vest. In back of him the waiter, who had just helped him off with his things, was horrified and speechless.

Eraser Hint.

When the eraser becomes well worn it is apt to smear the paper when it is used to erase a letter. To avoid this, simply rub a little chalk on the edge of the eraser and no smear will occur, and the erasure of the letter will be done much more quickly as well as more neatly.

THE TERROR AT NOONDAY.

The "terror by night" and "the destruction that wasteth at noonday" in the foreboding visions of the Psalmist of warring Israel were small matters compared with the dread afflictions that are promised the world when another great war is in full swing and the developed inventions in the field of poison gas attain to a hellish activity more or less complete. The Psalmist never dreamed of such a "destruction that wasteth" as is pictured by the Chemical Warfare Service of the army through its magazine, Chemical Warfare, an article in the March 20 issue of which says:

An ounce of diphenylchlorasine, an innocent-looking white powder, will keep up its bombardment for weeks and its molecular projectiles will fly around corners and into the smallest cracks. The airmen of the next war will not need a machine gun, or even bombs, to attack the enemy underneath. He does not have to take accurate aim and calculate the allowance for wind, height and velocity. All he need do is to attach a sprayer to the tail of his machine and rain down poison on the earth beneath, as the farmer kills the bugs on his potato field.

In a memorandum on the same subject by General Amos Fries, which was read in the Senate recently, it was shown that, in case of war with Japan and an inevitably prompt attack on the Philippines, a small bay within 100 miles of Corregidor would be seized, a descent would be made upon that island at the entrance of Manila Bay with fifty airplanes each carrying a ton of mustard gas to be sprinkled on Corregidor. And the results? "Within 48 hours the place would be practically untenable for anybody. Animals and all human beings will begin to grow sick from injury to the lungs or from very bad burns. Forty-eight hours alone will suffice for a reduction of the island without firing a shot. Thus will pass the Philippine islands into the hands of the Japanese." Defense against such an attack would be practically impossible without a superior air force, and the United States could not maintain in the Philippines an air force greater than the Japanese would employ, according to General Fries, who also paints an appallingly ghastly picture of the agonies of New York when a hostile fleet of 100 "poison sprinklers" flies over that city after defeating or evading the American flying fleet.

If such unimaginable horrors are possible and even probable, of what avail will be the mightiest of floating navies or a great and invincible army? How can military genius and individual human bravery play the part that was open to them in the past? Is there no possible escape from the prospective wholesale murder of women, children and old men along with the strong but impotent young fighters? Yes, there is one, and only one—the abolition of chemical warfare by agreement among the nations. But, as General Fries pointedly remarks, if the nations can be held to such an agreement, they can be held to an agreement to abolish war itself.

FRANCE WANTS OLYMPIC GAMES

France wants the Olympic games in 1924, and its national committee of sports has its Premier's promise of financial and moral support by the government. The Paris Council is also said to have agreed to build a stadium on the site of the dismantled Paris fortifications if France is assured of the games. In that case Paris would be the first city to have the meeting of the world's athletes a second time, for the second of the Olympic games—reinaugurated after many centuries—was held in Paris in 1900. The first, appropriately, was held in historic Athens in 1896; the third in St. Louis in 1904; the fourth in London in 1908; the fifth in Stockholm in 1912; and the sixth in Antwerp in 1920. On account of the World War the quadrennial games were omitted in 1916.

It is said that the meeting in Paris in 1900 did much toward the development of outdoor games and sports in France, and that from that time on athletics in the various forms steadily grew in popularity among the French. No doubt this helped materially to prepare that nation for the great strain put upon its young men during the war, and probably it is a recognition of this among French officials that explains their desire to secure further stimulus for athletics by bringing the Olympic games to France in 1924. Self-confident German militarism strangely and totally overlooked athletics as a highly valuable contribution to the preparations for war.

WOODSTOCK HAS UNION PICNIC

The Woodstock schools held their first union picnic at Shady on Friday, May 20th. The day was perfect and the Shady school grounds afford an ideal place for a picnic.

The pupils and teachers from the various districts began to assemble about ten o'clock. The Wittenberg school was the last to arrive. They came in a gaily decorated wagon drawn by F. B. Stone's team. As they drove on the grounds they gave their school yell and were greeted by a chorus of cheers. All the schools were present with the exception of Lake Hill.

All of the town teachers were soon busily employed in directing the various games. As dodge ball and three deep require little preparation these were played first.

As soon as the end ball court was laid out two teams were chosen up by leaders. These consisted of ten to each team and were known as the "Reds" and the "Blues." Two twenty-minute games were played of which the "Blues" were the victors.

End ball proved to be the most popular game of the day, but the smaller children enjoyed themselves in various singing games that are given under the physical education course.

Just before noon the races were held. The boys and the girls each had a fifty-yard dash. The boys made the faster time. As the road by the Shady school and church is very rough it was dangerous for the children to run on it and so the races were soon ended.

At noon the children and teachers gathered for lunch. Each school ate their lunch together. There is a pretty pine grove near the school house and the shade was very welcome after the strenuous games of the morning. Ice cream and lemonade were served with the lunch.

Just about noon Superintendent Andrews from Oliverea arrived and was cordially welcomed by all. G. W. Elwyn and a party from Woodstock were there in the afternoon. Lincoln MacDaniel of Shady represented the trustees of the town and proved to be a very able dispenser of the ice cream. All were sorry that Mr. Lincoln, the Methodist minister from Woodstock, could not have spent more time with them but he came later in the afternoon. Mr. Lincoln takes a great interest in the schools and expressed warm approbation of the teachers' efforts to make the children of the town closer acquainted.

After dinner a number of games and motion songs were given. Following these the pupils all grouped in front of the school house and, after giving the flag salute sang "America." Superintendent Andrews was then called on for a speech and responded in a very fitting way by emphasizing the importance of such a gathering.

A variety of races came next. These were such as sack races, three-legged races and some others, all of which furnished much amusement.

Three teams then played an all up relay. This too proved to be quite popular and three different sets of teams played beginning with the largest pupils and ending with the "tiny tots." This was about the last game of the afternoon.

The picnic broke up about 3:30, and before leaving a vote of thanks was given to the people of Shady for the use of their school grounds and to the Principal, Miss Charlotte Wagar, for her kind assistance. Those present who favored holding another union picnic sometime in May 1922 were asked to indicate it by saying "aye," and the response of "ayes" showed that the idea was a popular one.

The teachers and their various schools present were as follows: Zena, Miss Alice Wagar; Woodstock, Mrs. Wolven and Miss Kerr; Bearsville, Miss Burhans; Shady, Miss Charlotte Wagar; Wittenberg, Miss Boice; Willow, Mr. Eighmey.

What do you want to know about nature subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper. Look for answers in this column.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. How can a turtle remain under water three or four hours at a time, then come to the surface and remain above water the same length of time?

2. Do prairie dogs and burrowing owls live together. I have heard that the dogs eat the owls, and that the owls eat the dogs.

3. Are thistles fragrant? Are they poisonous?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. What is the best season of the year to prune shade or fruit trees?

Pruning may be done in winter, or late spring, just before the season of growth begins. In the north, February or March is good for apples and pears, but peaches will benefit by a little later pruning, as they winter kill easily, and dead growth can then be noticed and removed. It is difficult to give rules for all climates and latitudes. Consult Farmer's Bulletin No. 181 on Pruning.

2. Will a wolverine, if wounded, attack a hunter? Will it steal small stock from farmyards?

The wolverine or carcajou of the New World (called glutton in Europe), is a large powerful shaggy marten, famous among trappers for its thefts of small fur bearers caught in traps. It is cunning and painstaking in getting food, and when supplies are scarce, is likely to turn to the farm yard for any small stock exposed. The chances are against its attacking a hunter but the female is ferocious when she has young.

3. What kind of an egg do eagles lay?

Usually eagles lay two eggs but occasionally three are found. The golden eagle's eggs are dull white, with brown marks as a rule, though sometimes they are almost plain. The so-called bald eagle (with a white head), has white eggs of a rather dirty tint. About a month is needed to incubate eagle eggs.

CONSERVE LAUREL.

New York State Flower Disappearing in Connecticut.

Conspicuous among the flowers of Connecticut, which are in need of conservation, is our state flower, the mountain laurel. Every person in the state should know more about this beautiful shrub and should take a share in its protection, when occasion offers.

Left to itself, the laurel is a rapid grower, and spreads alike through pasture and wood, making so vigorous a growth that one might not suspect that in certain localties, especially in thickly settled communities, it is already on the road to extermination. Indeed, near the larger cities, as along the Hudson river near New York, it has been quite destroyed.

The laurel is very susceptible to winter weather, and flowers somewhat irregularly, about one year in three being what is known as a laurel year, when the blossoms in June seem to cover all the bushes, increasing in the richness of their pink tones wherever the plant receives the most sunlight. In these laurel years, every motor on the country road appears to be taking home its burden of the royal clusters. But this is not the destruction that is threatening the plant most immediately. It may lead to the extermination of the best plants along the principal highways; but if motorists were thoughtful enough to pick in moderation and as far back from the road as practicable all this picking, extensive as it is, might no do a lasting harm.

The great danger to the laurel is the picking for decoration. Quantitatively, this has become a far greater source of destruction than the picking of the flowers in the spring, and it occurs principally at a season when the damage resulting is more serious. At the Christmas season every window and every church testifies to the thousands of bushes bereft of their evergreen leaves, and without these leaves the plants are helpless to manufacture food for another year's growth.

The commercial uses of the laurel are many. Besides being sold for decorations everywhere, it is the favorite of local woods for making rustic furniture and garden arbors, and it is used for purposes as curious as the making of home-made tools and to provide a substitute for briar pipes.

The state of Connecticut has enacted a law (General Statutes, 6275), which prohibits the picking of the laurels without the consent of the owner of the land on which it grows, and if this law were observed little more would have to be done to effect its adequate protection. As with the arbutus, Connecticut leads other states in thus trying to preserve its choiest plants; but any legal provision, to be effective, must be enforced by public appreciation of the needs of the case and by public interest. Individual moderation must be exercised in picking the flowers, and the use of the foliage in winter, for decorative purposes, must be discouraged. Persons observing that shipments of the leaves are being made from their towns should, where possible, find out whether these are in accordance with the law and if not should report them to the nearest Garden Club, (such clubs are located in Hartford, Middletown, Litchfield, New Canaan, Ridgefield, Greenwich and Washington), or to such other agency as may be interested in the protection of our plant life.

The laurel is the emblem of the button distributed to members of the Wild Flower Preservation Society of America; and schools wishing to help in the work of conservation might well organize as branches and apply for the buttons to the society at the New York Botanical Gardens in Bronx Park; New York city.

Connecticut is favored in possessing many colonies of the laurel's relative, the big laurel or rhododendron. This grows wild in a few of the swamps of the northwestern part of the state, in Litchfield county, while in eastern and southeastern Connecticut it is a common and characteristic shrub in many of the cedar thickets similar to those that cover swamps, sometimes forming dense thickets similar to those that cover hundreds of acres in the Caroline mountains. These rhododendron swamps are well worth visiting; but picking the flowers should be discouraged, and no one should attempt to dig up the plants for transplanting. The native plants do not take kindly to cultivation, and much better success will be attained by getting plants from the nurseries.

The greatest care should be exercised in picking all wild flowers. There is a beautiful white flower—the foam flower—which if picked, never blooms again.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

He Proved It.

"I cannot make a speech," he said
As he twiddled his thumbs and scratched his head.
And ere he'd finished his talk, for-
 sooth,
We knew the man had told the truth.

A regular customer sends us a clipping from an unnamed paper which reads thusly: "Oscar Reeves has leased the Lewis farm and plans to raise cain his summer." Luck to ya, Oscar, but whatever ya do, be keerful.

A real optimist can have a good time just thinking about what a good time he would have if he was having it.

When introduced they tell us how delighted they are to meet us, and the next time we run across them they are gazing at the sky.

Synthetic Gem.

You can never judge a man's worldly importance by the way he signs his name on a hotel register

There will always be vacancies in the heavenly choir for a few more bass singers

Some women—and some men, too—are a whole lot like spaghetti—when you think you've got 'em, they slip away from you.

Getting Back at Him

Didn't you find it hard to return to humdrum civil life after having been in the army for a few years?" asked Lieutenant Smithers.

"Well, it wouldn't have been so bad," he replied, "if one of the privates in my company wasn't foreman of the shop where I work."

Of course, we realize that our fame doesn't reach around the world But it is rather discouraging after you've been grindin' out this Colyum for months to have somebody come in and ask, "Who writes that Office Cat stuff, anyway?"

Blame the Driver.

He tried to walk across the street with his legs, light his pipe with his hands and mouth, see a pretty girl with his eyes, and think about his errand with his brain, all at one and the same time. And now he ain't.

A scientist claims to have discovered that blonds lack the mental acumen possessed by brunettes. From which we gather that said scientist has a blond stenographer and a brunette wife—and the wife has just gotten wise to the fact.

The Slacker.

His fond heart used to sigh for her.
He told her he would die for her.
 But 'twas a big mistake;
For she became a wife to him.
And since she's tied for life to him,
 He will no eat her cake.

Our Hall of Fame.

Another kind of Lever act. A tightwad's wife trying to pry him loose from a $10 bill.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Dainty Dress For a Tiny Tot.

Pattern 3437 was used for this design. It is cut in 4 sizes: 1, 2, 4 and 6 years. A 4 year size will require 2⅜ yards of 36 inch material.

Embroidered materials, voile, batiste, lawn, crepe, crepe de chine, repp, poplin, silk and linen could be used for this style. It is also attractive for gingham, percale, chambrey and flannelette.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or 1c and 2c stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

RECITAL DAY AT DODGE STUDIO

Saturday was indeed "Recital Day" the Dodge musical studio on Green street, for in the afternoon the youthful pupils of Mrs. Harry P. Dodge played for their friends and parents, and in the evening Mr. Dodge's pupils and friends took possession of the studio.

All of Mrs. Dodge's pupils showed splendidly the advantages of musical education as carried on today, playing admirably. The program was as follows:

(a.) Hot Cross Buns .....Leighton
(b.) The Mill ....Gaynor

Peter Knauth and Mrs. Dodge.

The program played by Mr. Dodge's pupils open with "Spanish Castle" by Manna-Zucca, played very well by Peter Knauth. This was followode by one of Cecil Burleigh's delightful compositions, "Cotton-Tails," played very nicely by Martha Gold.

"Revels of the Wood Nymphs," by Barbour, was played with grace and spirit and in an usually clean-cut manner by Kathleen Sharpe. Josephine Ingalsbe played the "Valse Lente," by Dolmetsch, with excellent fullness of tone.

A number full of sharp contrasts and requiring unusual musicianship was admirably played by Beatrice Powley, it being "An Den Fruling," by Brieg.

A bright number, well played was Valse Brilliante, by Goenl, played by Margaret Messinger.

A number in which the tone production was excellent and the rhythm steady with good interpretation was "Erotican," by Sjorgren, played by Alto Jerusalem.

A graceful and excellently rendered a number was "Valse Arabesque" by Lack, played by Elizabeth Liebig. This was followed by two markedly characteristic numbers played well by Gertrude Walsh. They were "Berceuse," by Karganoff, and "Polish Dance" by Scharwenka.

The Chopin Waltz in C-Sharp Minor was played with considerable grace and skill by Ethel Schwab.

But the two most remarkable numbers of the evening, played with mature and splendid interpretation and an astonishing technique, so that they were a real musical treat to listen to, rather than good as played by a youthful student, were two Chopin numbers, "Waltze Brilliante," and "Chant Polonaise," both ranking among Chopins more difficult compositions, and played by Katharine Kearney. Miss Katharine has gained vastly in one year in technique and poise and steadiness, so that with her interpretive intuition, it looks as though she had indeed a very brilliant musical future to look forward to and work for.

Both programs were played from memory.

A REAL AND URGENT NEED

The following appealing and delightful story, from the pen of a Kingston young woman, admirably sets forth a very and urgent need in our community; the need for a contagion hospital in connection with our splendid and efficient yet home-like Industrial Home; a need for really sick children and to actually prevent sickness attacking well children, who find in this beneficent institution a real home.

The House Next Door—A True Story.

Right here in our town there's a big brick house with a fine green yard around it where many little children play in the sunshine. This Big Brick House is very proud and spreads wide material gables in conscious superiority; you see it has more children than any other house in town. But next door to it there's a little frame house. It hasn't any children at all. It is lonesome and grows very tired of its own quiet. Its kitchen smells things cooking in the Big House for all those children, and it sighs and says, "Oh dear, why couldn't I have a few children to cook things for, Big House has so many." But specially upstairs where its heart is, the Little House has big aches and empty feelings. When the shadows of night creep in through its windows and the big yard is stilled of every voice, the Little House looks over and sees the lights in the room where so many children are saying their prayers and being tucked in bed, and really, it feels very forlorn No little children to tuck in its beds!

But this year the Big House hasn't been so very happy; it has had a big worry. One evening at supper time many months ago, nine of ten little heads around the smaller children's table raised up eagerly after the saying of grace, and nine spoons clattered in nine bowls. But the tenth head drooped wearily. One little boy looked only listlessly at his cereal. His cheeks burned, his throat hurt and he didn't want any supper

The little boy had diphtheria, and the anxiety of all the grown-up family of the Big House was in vain. Death took the child—but his malady remained. The Big House could not take care of all the well children and keep them from catching the dread disease. Several children had diphtheria and all of them had to stay out of school all winter. It was a troublous year for the Big House. Wouldn't it be a fine thing if the Little House next door could have the children of the Big House come and visit when they get sick? This is where you and I come into the story. We can help the Big House to be helped by the Little House next door. We can help the Little House to share in the life of the Big House. Some day soon the board of directors of the Industrial Home will ask us to—(It is a little word of only four letters, but it is one of the biggest words in our language. It begins with G.)

Sunday Among Hottest.

Sunday was one of the hottest days of the season, the thermometer hovering around the 90 degree mark. The warm clear weather brought out motorists in great numbers and many motored to the mountains to cool off. As usual the Ashokan boulevard attracted the automobilists and one party going north about 9 o'clock Sunday passed 57 cars on this road bound toward Kingston. The night was close and oppressive but about 9:30 this morning a cold wind swept down from the north, tumbling the mercury down to 56 in a few minutes and a driving rain soon followed.

At the Brickyards.

The brick industry along the river is gradually picking up for the season and a large number of men are finding employment on the various yards in this vicinity. However, labor is not scarce this season and there are plenty of men to operate the yards to capacity. The large volume of "floating" labor is again making its appearance and there is a constant stream of men coming and going on the different yards. Few of the laborers remain more than a few days when they move on and a new lot take their place.

Detour on Rosendale Road.

Owing to construction work a detour is posted on the Rosendale road. Traffic is turned from the state road at Kallopp's Corner over the road leading to the Binnewater station and then along the Wallkill Valley Railroad to Rosendale village. The Rosendale road is in poor condition but repair work is being started and some of the holes are being filled in.

Couldn't Catch Cub.

Harvey Sammons, the downtown restaurant proprietor and some others who were with him on an auto trip near Slide Mountain the other night amused themselves by chasing a cub bear that was apparently dazzled by the headlights and scampered around in their glare for some time. The cub proved too elusive, however, and got away. Mama bear did not put in an appearance.

Government Jobs Open.

The United States Civil Service Commission calls attention to the need for typists and stenographers in the Departmental Service, Washington, D. C. Also, about 200 teachers are needed in Indian schools throughout the country. Full information may be obtained from H. G. LeRoy, local secretary, Central Post Office, Kingston, N. Y.

THE VLY.

The Vly, May 23.—The song service at the church last Thursday evening was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. Harley Bishop has kindly consented to continue his efficient services and the congregation voted to have similar services during the summer every two weeks. The next service is appointed for Thursday evening, June 2.

OFFICER KEARNS BADLY INJURED

When Ford Car He Was in Upset Sunday—Sergeant and Mrs. Deegan of Board of Water Supply Police, and James Deegan, Also Hurt.

Sunday morning about 10:30 o'clock about half way between West Hurley and Shokan a wheel came off a Ford touring car and the automobile careened into the ditch alongside the road and turned over. In the Ford were Sergeant and Mrs. John Deegan, of the New York board of water supply police, James Deegan, the sergeant's brother, and Officer Patrick Kearns of the police force.

A hurry call was sent to Kingston and Dr. John F. Larkin hurried to the scene, and had the four removed to the Benedictine Hospital, where it was found that the sergeant and his wife and his brother were not seriously injured, and, after having their wounds dressed, they left the hospital. Officer Kearns, however, is badly injured, and is in a serious condition at the hospital. He sustained some fractured ribs, a fracture of the shoulder blade, severe cuts and bruises, as well as internal injuries.

Judged Him by His Hair.

At the beginning of the second semester of school, a boy entered the first grade wearing curls. That noon at table my young hopeful in a tone registering disgust said: "That new boy is sure some sissy." Upon my asking him how he knew, he replied: "I know because his hair says so."—Chicago Tribune.

The Polish threat to occupy Upper Silesia and subsequent action to carry out the same has plunged the country again into a [illegible] revolution. The armed rebel insurgent force, followers of Korfanty, have spread terror throughout the territory. The above photo, one of the first to reach this country from the disturbed area, pictures a typical scene in Upper Silesia, when the insurgents sought to block the advance of troops seeking to down the rebellion caused by the results of the plebescite. Below insurgents are shown manning a machine gun on a roadway in the terrorized zone.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

She bequeaths all the estate, real and personal, excepting one-half of the household goods to a niece, Elizabeth M. Brodhead, the other half of the household goods to a niece, Catherine Conner. It is devised that $25 be deposited in the New Paltz Savings Bank, the interest to be used for the care of burial plot in cemetery. The value of the estate is $3,000 real and $500 personal. John N. Vanderlyn is the attorney for the petitioner.

The last will and testament of the town of Esopus and has been ad- Kathinka Mueller, deceased, late of the town of Esopus has been admitted to probate. To the Missionary Society of the Most Holy Redeemer is devised $500 for saying 500 Masses for the benefit of the soul of her departed husband, William Mueller, deceased. To Carl Gordon is bequeathed $1,000 amount of an insurance benefit out of which is to be paid the funeral expenses and for a tombstone, to use one-half for such purposes. The rest and residue of the estate, real and personal, is bequeathed to Adolphena Baden and Cecelia Wust, sisters, and Frederick Mueller, a brother-in-law. The value of the estate is given as $1,000. Nicholas Stock is named as the executor. H. H. Flemming is the attorney for the petitioner.

The accounts of Jesse B. Divine and M. Eugene Clark as trustees of the last will and testament of James W. Donaldson, deceased, late of the town of Wawarsing, were filed with Surrogate Kaufman. They show receipts by the trustees of assets to the amount of $90,585.61, disbursements of $18,235.28, leaving a balance of $72,350.33 to be disposed of as directed by the trust provisions of Mr. Donaldson's will. ONE OF NATURE'S MARVELS Naturalist Enthusiastic Over the Wonderful Composition and Uses of the Spider's Web.

In his book "A Naturalist in Himalaya," Captain R. N. Hingston notes that when a spider's web has become worn out beyond further patching, the maker eats it.

"I was at first very much surprised to think that a spider's stomach could be so capacious as to contain the complete snare," says the captain. "In this, however, I was much mistaken; for I found that a large, complete snare, eleven inches in diameter, was of such delicate substance and compressible into so small a bulk that, when rolled into a ball between the fingers, it formed a compact mass but little larger than an ordinary pin's head. A spider will often swallow entire a fly of much greater dimensions than its own compact snare. I look on the circular snare of the Epeira as almost as beautiful an example of mathematical accuracy in the life of organic beings as the exquisite structure of the honeycomb.

"But how much more wonderful does it all seem when we picture the web as a potential fabric, first woven into an inimitable harmony to lure to death thousands of living creatures, then tattered and torn in the tragedy, to be again received into the maw of its voracious host, to be repurified in the strange economy of a spider's structure, to emerge again from the spinning-wheel in fine, transparent filaments, to be woven again into the same lovely texture, and to repeat the same eternal drama that fills the mind with such enthusiasm and admiration."

Thoughts on Thinking.

Men of great attainments have often been troubled with mental or physical ailments, but too wide an inference should not be drawn from this. Those who have never endured toothache cannot describe suffering. One who is unmoved by the loss of a collar stud is not fitted to picture passion; if his blood is cold he lacks artistic temperament and the portrayal of hope and fear, to say nothing of all consuming anger, is not for him.

Good Literature Still Produced.

Amid the multitude of many books good literature is still produced as it was in the days of Thackeray and Dickens, Carlyle and Ruskin, Tennyson and Browning, Irving and Hawthorne and Lowell and Emerson, out of the hearts of men and women who write because they love it, and who do their work in their own way because they know that, for them, it is the best way.—Henry van Dyke.

Miss Gladys Deacon & Duke of Marlborough

Reports that the Duke of Marlborough is engaged to Miss Gladys Deacon, formerly of Boston, though not confirmed, are prevalent in London. Miss Deacon is now a guest at the Duke's summer residence, Blenheim. Miss Gladys Deacon is a daughter of the late Edward Parker Deacon, of Boston and a sister of Princess Radziwill. She has spent most of her life in England and France. The Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, obtained her final decree of divorce recently.

"GIANTS" BOWL NEAR RECORD

The National Bowling League of St. Peter's Lyceum is still in running order and is proceeding with very prosperous results. The games Saturday evening were more interesting than the score here shows. The Giants made a clean sweep, defeating the Phillies both games with some difficulty. The Giants scored 810 pins the first game, which is only two pins less than the highest game bowled on the Lyceum alleys, and 724 pins the second game making a grand total of 1538. This score for two games is the closest any team has come to the high score for a single match in some time, the top notch being 1,549 pins. John Reis carried the evening by a large majority of pins both for one game and the average of both games, the first game he tipped the pins to 197 and the second he came back with 172 making a total of 369 pins and an average of 185 pins. The Phillies' new captain Cornelius Fox worked hard in trying to gain honors for the evening but fell behind five pins for a single game and 14 pins for the entire match. The score for the evening is as follows:

Giuseppe de Filippo, of Bayonne, N. J., laborer and truck driver, has been arrested on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner S. M. KINGSTON WON IN SLOW GAME

Poughkeepsie Beaten For Second Time 8 to 6 With Heat Apparently Causing Loss of Pep on Both Sides.

Saturday afternoon the Kingston High School baseball team administered another defeat to the Poughkeepsie High School team in a game played on the Athletic Field on Cornell street, the final score being 8 to 6. This was the second time that the locals have defeated the "Bridge City" boys this season but the first game does not count and will have to be played over again on June 11 at Watson Hollow Park in Poughkeepsie.

The game on Saturday was a rather slow affair, both sides showing a tendency to make errors. This was probably due to the fact that the day was unusually warm and the fellows did not feel over-ambitious, because of the steady downpour of heat on them from "Old Sol."

Vogt, Van Bramer and Cahill did the hitting for the locals, securing two hits apiece. Cahill's two hits were for two sacks while Vogt drove one of his hits for a trip to second. Bott did some very clever infield playing and smeared couple of Texas leaguers in regular big league style. However, Bott hasn't as yet hit his former batting stride and unless he hurries up a bit, he won't come out on top of the league pile as he did last year, with the highest batting average.

Shorter did the hitting for the Blue and White team chalking up two hits. Allen got one nice hit and made it go for a homer, when he hit to deep left field and Cahill lost the ball. The hit would have been good for three sacks at least, but by "hiding" the ball, he made home run on it.

Kingston started out in the first inning to sew up the game and they made a good start too. Every man on the team had a chance at bat and six runs were knocked in. After this beginning though, they seemed to go rather stale and only got two runs in the game and allowed the visitors to score on their errors.

Van Bramer, at second seemed to be a great deal off color and more than once his error caused a tally against the Maroon and White.

Caunitz pitched the whole nine innings and seemed to be back in his old form again. The visitors secured five hits off him. However, he did not register his usual number of strikeouts, getting only four.

Dietz was on the mound for the Poughkeepsians and allowed six hits and struck out four men. He pitched a good game though and should be given a great deal of credit, because he fanned Davenport. This is the first time in two years that Davenport has fanned. Nevertheless one strike-out in two years is not such a bad record.

Tis game puts the Maroon and White team in first place with two victories to their credit with no losses. The summary:

MINSTREL SHOW HERE TOMORROW

The Harvey minstrel organization will stop over in Kingston tomorrow. Starting with a free street parade at noon and two band concerts in front of the Kingston Opera House, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, this aggregation of fun-makers, dancers, singers and musicians will give a matinee performance at 2:30 and evening at 8:15. This company carries a new departure in a novelty octoroon chorus, and features some of the best banjo players of the world. The press criticisms from every city where they have appeared speak very highly of them and will no doubt draw a capacity audience here. Included in the show are the Australian Waits, the whip crackers and boomerang throwers, the six Panama dancers, an olio of American and European novelties, the Pasadena Rose' ballet, a picturesque scenic novelty of music, singing and dancing, introducing the dashing octoroon chorus. The company travels in two special Pullmans.

Would Not Be Satisfied.

Tommy had grown very tired of kissing all his relatives every night and morning. One night his mother said to him: "Won't you come and kiss Aunt Anne?" "It's no good, mummy," he answered. "She won't stay kissed."

Firefly Illumination.

The firefly is a well-known beetle of the glowworm family, which is able to throw out a strong and apparently phosphorescent light in the dark. The illumination is intermittent, and appears to be under the control of the insect's nervous system. Both the male and the female fireflies emit light, as well as their larvae, the eggs being luminous even while still in the body.
